

A new website launch as company introduces new brand identity.

New Year heralds a new identity for Evotech

Buildings maintenance service provider, Evotech has a new identity that better reflects its service provision at the start of a new decade.

The new logo remains familiar with a subtle nod to the past but has evolved to better represent Evotech’s growing business with its five blade fan icon representing the company’s main service areas of maintenance, engineering, building performance, compliance and disaster recovery.

With a more dynamic and expansive colour palette with a colour to represent each service area, every part of Evotech’s services provision now has a consistent look and feel.

To mark the start of this new decade, the company also launched a brand new website, www.evotech.co.uk packed with information about the company, its services and its latest news. The company is also using social media to engage with staff and customers alike and regularly posts its latest news on LinkedIn and Twitter.

The business can now provide up to date information at the touch of a button across a number of digital platforms with customers and other stakeholders to better interact with the Evotech brand on a more personal level.
